

OVERALL AIM: To understand the barriers to the adoption and implementation of the PhilHealth standard-risk Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia (SR ALL) health insurance package and to identify potential strategies for improvement

Inputs	Activities	Outputs	Outcomes	Impact
- St. Jude funding - Expertise - Materials / Supplies - Medical, billing, and insurance records - Cancer registry data	- Evaluate the implementation of the SR ALL health insurance package across eight centers using the RE-AIM framework - Review hospital records - Conduct key informant interviews to understand the perspectives of healthcare workers and patients - Develop a communication strategy and resources - Conduct consultative meetings with stakeholders - Compare treatment outcomes between enrolled and non-enrolled SR ALL patients in the selected centers	- Identification and validation of barriers to adoption, implementation, and maintenance for the healthcare package - Recommendations for improving utilization of the healthcare package - Stakeholder engagement - Co-designed communication resources - Comparative analysis of treatment outcomes between enrolled and non-enrolled patients	- Country-level influence through engagement with national authorities and participation as an expert advisor to a policy group - Adoption and implementation of recommendations for improving utilization of the healthcare package - Increased awareness among target beneficiary population and health care professionals - Adoption of institutional SOPs related to the healthcare package	Increase in equitable access to care for children with cancer - Increased awareness of health insurance package - Increased enrollment of eligible patients - Increased infrastructure/ manpower to support healthcare insurance package implementation - Increased compliance rates with package requirements and treatment - Expansion of eligibility criteria Improved survival for children with cancer Improved patient and family experiences - Improved quality of life for children with cancer - Decreased financial burden for children with cancer and their families